Holiday Shopping Season Brings Increase in Theft

The Metropolitan Police Department has seen a rise in thefts at businesses in the Tenleytown area, coinciding with the holiday shopping season.

According to Second District Lieutenant Alan Hill, well-organized teams of three to five people target local stores, with one member distracting the sales clerk while the others load items in their bags or overcoats. At larger retail establishments, the teams fan out through the store, grab large amounts of merchandise, and bolt for the door. In both scenarios, the teams typically have a car waiting nearby.

Store managers should be especially vigilant through the holidays. Retailers are encouraged to review their loss prevention strategies, provide a refresher training for employees, and make sure any security cameras are functioning properly. Lt. Hill said camera footage has been significant to MPD's investigations into recent thefts.

Lt. Hill provides a report on crime and public safety in Police Service Area 202, which includes Tenleytown, at the monthly Advisory Neighborhood Commission 3E meetings.
